

Greensboro College International Exchange Programs

STUTTGART, GERMANY

STUDYING ABROAD IN GERMANY

Study abroad in Europe's leading commercial and industrial country!

Greensboro College has an active and very productive exchange program with Ludwigsburg University of Education (LUE), which is located near Stuttgart, where the headquarters of Allianz Life Insurance, LBBW Bank, Mercedes-Benz, and Porsche are located.

LUE offers a range of subjects in education, the humanities, and the sciences. Students do not need to know German since many classes are taught in English. However, LUE offers language and culture courses for students interested in learning or improving their German.

“The clever find the best education through travel.”

— Johann Wolfgang von Goethe
Wilhelm Meisters Lehrjahre, Book 2

“Much too late, do many realize the missed goals in life – joy, nature's beauty, good health, travel, and culture. Therefore, people, be wise! It's high time! Travel! Travel!”

— Wilhelm Busch
Letter to Johanna Kessler,
July 30, 1896

APPLICATION DEADLINES

Fall or Summer Semester: April 15
Spring Semester: November 15

About Ludwigsburg University of Education

- Founded in 1946 as the Stuttgart Pedagogical Institute before establishing itself as the Ludwigsburg University of Education in 1962.
- Currently has a student body of 5,500 students
- Offers studies in the arts (visual art, music), education (early childhood, emotional/social development, mental development, etc.), humanities (history, German, English, religion and ethics), natural sciences (biology, chemistry, physics, mathematics), applied sciences (computer sciences, technology, sports), and social sciences (economics, politics).

Why Study Abroad in Stuttgart, Germany?

• Enrich Your Education by Broadening Your Horizons!

Many students in the United States who study abroad or even travel briefly as part of a course report that such experiences were life-changing and, in some cases, career-defining. There's only so much you can learn from reading textbooks and watching travel shows. Get to know what life is like in another country, make life-long friends, and gain valuable experiences that will not only make a lasting difference in your life, but also make yourself valuable to future employers and graduate schools! Even better, many Germans speak English very well, especially in a cosmopolitan city like Stuttgart!

• Experience Europe!

From Stuttgart, Europe's highly-developed, state-of-the-art train network allows for day trips to nearby München; the financial capital of the European Union, Frankfurt am Main; King Ludwig II's legendary Neuschwanstein Castle; one of the political capitals of the European Union, Strasbourg; and others! You can also spend a weekend in Zürich, Switzerland, or go hiking in the Black Forest!

• Post-graduate Career or Education Opportunities!

In 2009, a University of Minnesota research team showed that greater global engagement through studying abroad significantly and positively affects meaningful employment and graduate school enrollment, to the point where the University of Minnesota's Carlson School of Management required all undergraduates to have a study abroad experience in order to graduate. Study abroad experiences encourage skills that many corporations and international organizations are looking for!

For complete details, visit:

www.greensboro.edu/study-abroad

To learn more about the program, application requirements, or information sessions, please contact:

Dr. Jason A. Myers

Associate Professor of Biblical Studies and Director of Study Abroad Initiatives

jason.myers@greensboro.edu

Think critically. Act justly. Live faithfully.

815 West Market Street, Greensboro, NC 27401

www.greensboro.edu