Dear ALUMNI and FRIENDS
of Greensboro College:

The past year has been a momentous year on campus! We have completed more building and renovations in the past year-plus than at any other time in at least the past 20 years. Some projects, like a state-of-the-art fiber-optic network, aren't visible to the naked eye, while others, such as the Student Center (still being renovated), the First Citizens Bank Global Communication Center, and the Willie and Lisa Bullock Athletic Training Center, are destined to be central to the lives of our students.

These projects and many others were made possible by a number of factors. Critically, thanks to the hard work of our admissions staff and our faculty, even as the number of college-age students drops year by year, our enrollment numbers are holding their own in a tough environment for small, private, liberal-arts colleges. Moreover, we're keeping numbers up while maintaining quality, as we were recognized again this fall by U.S. News & World Report as one of the South's top regional colleges and newly recognized as among the Top 10 Southern regional colleges for social mobility and quality undergraduate teaching. These ratings reflect progress we are making in our year-old Defining the Path effort to refresh curriculum, strengthen our ties to the community, expand student career options, care for and enhance our historic campus, and keep the transformative Greensboro College education affordable. Some of the work, such as completion of the Global Communication Center, also has been made possible by a five-year, $1.93 million Title III federal grant, which is helping us enhance our degree-completion support program.

And, of course, much of the work has been made possible by gifts we have received through the GC2020: Uniquely Focused capital campaign, which will officially conclude on June 30. You will see some of these donors recognized in the 2018-2019 Honor Roll of Donors in this issue, and keep an eye out in early 2020 for more news.

All of these projects have been a part of the GC2020: A Clear Vision with a Sharp Focus strategic plan, which, along with the capital campaign, ends June 30. We have begun work on a new strategic plan, which the Board of Trustees will be considering soon.

We've been doing what we do for 181 years, through good times and tough times. The times now are challenging – perhaps the most perilous in postwar American higher education – but we believe we are in a good position to weather them. Our focus day-in and day-out is always on today's students, and we also are looking to and planning for the future, from facilities to curricula to personnel – and we're doing it with confidence that we will continue to teach students to think critically, act justly, and live faithfully.

With Pride,

GREENSBORO COLLEGE'S MOST AMBITIOUS building and renovation projects in two decades are nearing an end, yielding facilities that are likely to become key to students' academic and recreational lives.

NEW FACILITIES ARE OPENING

The Willie and Lisa Bullock Athletic Training Center opened in Hanes Gymnasium in December 2018. The center was named for the former trustee and his wife after their major GC20/20: Uniquely Focused capital-campaign gift. The center was moved from its former site in what had been the Campbell Athletic Center, which is being renovated once more into the Student Center, which it had been until the early 2000s.

As for the Student Center, as this article went to press, renovation work was continuing to bring the decades-old building up to fire code. It will feature a coffee shop and student relaxation and game spaces. It also eventually will house the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Center, which is being funded and staffed with money from a federal Title III grant the college won in late 2018.

And the college cut the ribbon Aug. 21 on the First Citizens Bank Global Communication Center, housed on the garden level of James Addison Jones Library. The center houses not only assistance in writing and speaking but also state-of-the-art facilities and guidance for creating podcasts, images, and multimedia presentations.

It was made possible with a $50,000 gift from the college's banking partner, First Citizens Bank, and with funding from the Title III grant. It has a full-time director.

GREENSBORO COLLEGE RECEIVES NEARLY $2 MILLION TO ENHANCE DEGREE-COMPLETION SUPPORT PROGRAM

THE COMPETITIVE
TITLE III GRANT AWARD
FROM THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION IS BELIEVED TO BE THE LARGEST
FEDERAL GRANT THE COLLEGE
EVER HAS RECEIVED.

THE FIVE-YEAR, $1.93 million federal grant Greensboro College was awarded just more than a year ago already is paying dividends for the college's degree-completion support efforts.

The college's degree-completion program goal is to increase rates of persistence -- staying in school -- and graduation among traditional undergraduate students, with particular focus on low-income, first-generation students.

The competitive Title III grant award from the U.S. Department of Education is believed to be the largest federal grant the college ever has received. Title III grants are intended to help colleges and universities serve low-income students.

"This grant is a significant step forward," said President Lawrence D. Czarda, Ph.D. "(In 2016), we began implementing recommendations from the college's Degree Completion Task Force to help ensure that students who start their degrees here complete them, and this grant will bring many of those recommendations to fruition."

Greensboro College's degree-completion program:

- Establishes a supplemental-instruction program, using early student data analysis to identify at-risk students, and assigns them peer mentors in certain courses. That program was launched in Spring 2019.
- Has added a new math position, with 50% of the position's time going to professional tutoring and 50% to teaching introductory math courses.

- Has allowed the college to complete the First Citizens Bank Global Communication Center, which opened this fall, and adds a full-time director. The center not only provides writing tutoring but also features studios in which students can create podcasts and multimedia projects. "Feedback from students about the center has been extremely positive," says Martha Bunch, associate vice president for academic administration.
- Is establishing The Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Center, which will be housed in the newly renovated Student Center, and funds a center director. The center will provide advocacy and support services for underrepresented and historically marginalized communities while creating meaningful opportunities for all GC students, faculty, and staff to advance the conversation on diversity education and develop intercultural competence.
- Is funding a comprehensive data-management system and a half-time data analyst.
- Helps fund a full-time director of student retention.

The grant covers all expenses for the first three years, with the college assuming some salary expenses in the fourth and fifth years.

The grant totals $1,933,023, with costs being borne by the college bringing the total cost of the project to $2,048,523. The federal government will be financing 94.4 percent of the project, with the college funding the remaining 5.6 percent.

"The grant came with a specific timeline for implementing various parts of the retention initiatives," Bunch says. "The timeline has helped us to prioritize which parts to develop and when."

The data gathering and analysis the grant makes possible will be particularly important, Bunch says.

"Data across many scales—demographics, grades in classes, students' activities on campus, financial aid, etc.—are being collected and will be analyzed with a systemic, sophisticated method so that we can target our efforts moving forward," says Bunch, who served on the Degree Completion Task Force. "As these initiatives continue to develop and new phases of the grant are implemented, we expect to see meaningful gains in our retention and degree-completion rates."

The many areas of emphasis covered by the grant make possible much of the college's Defining the Path program, unveiled a year ago. That program focuses on refinement and improvements in academics, access, affordability, degree completion and career readiness as the college continually works to refresh its curriculum, strengthen its ties to the community, expand its career options, care for and enhance our historic campus, and keep the transformative Greensboro College education affordable.

Greensboro College Prepares for Significant Transitions in Administration in 2020

With two vice presidents and the dean of the faculty scheduled to retire in 2020, Greensboro College is surfing a national trend. But President Lawrence D. Czarda, Ph.D., and the President’s Cabinet have spent more than a year working on succession and transition plans and recently announced them to faculty and staff.

Senior Vice President Chief Academic Officer Paul Leslie and Executive Vice President Chief Operating Officer Robin Daniel will retire this spring, as will Dean of the Faculty Rich Mayes, Jefferson Pilot Professor of Biology.

According to a recent article in the trade publication University Business, about 25% of all college faculty and staff nationwide are considering retirement within the next 12 to 36 months. Managing those transitions and successions thus becomes even more crucial.

So it was that Czarda announced in late July a number of organizational changes that became effective Aug. 1. Among them:

- Robin Daniel continues to supervise Student Development and also act as interim athletics director.
- The following staff who had reported to Daniel now report directly to Dean of Students Shana Plasters: Director of Counseling, Chaplain, Director of Campus Safety and Security, Director of Student Health, Director of First Year Experience, Director of Residence Life, Director of Student Wellness, and Director of Student Engagement.
- VP & Chief Financial Officer Chris Elmore becomes VP for Business & Finance, with contract administration over our facilities partner, SSC, and our dining partner, Chartwells Higher Ed.
- The bookstore will report to the Director of Finance & Controller.
- Lindsay Latham ’08 is named Senior Director of Student Financial Services, reporting to Chris Elmore, and supervises student accounts, collections, and financial aid.

- VP & Chief Advancement Officer Anne Hurd ’81 becomes VP for Advancement & Admissions. In addition to current direct reports, the Dean of Admissions, Julie Schatz ’89, will report to Hurd, with everyone currently reporting to Schatz continuing to do so.
- Assistant Vice President for Development Ellie Yearns ’05 will supervise alumni programs, advancement services, and Advancement office operations.
- Director of Marketing Tom Saitta will become Senior Director of Marketing, tasked with coordination of GC social media through Communications, Admissions, Alumni, and Athletics.

In addition, the search committee and process for seeking and selecting Paul Leslie’s successor began this fall; the job has been advertised, with interviews to begin early in the new year. The college hopes to interview finalists in February or March, with the successful candidate in place July 1.

The Cabinet has decided that the position will become Vice President for Academic Affairs & Provost, with the primary distinction being that the Dean of Students will report to the new position. The combined management of academics and student development has become a typical model, with a number of positive dynamics, particularly on small college campuses.

The Academic Deans Council has begun discussing the process of choosing Dean of the Faculty Rich Mayes’s successor.

The college also is focusing this fall on finding a new athletics director who will focus on that position’s traditional duties and not coach a major sport. Whoever is chosen for that position will report directly to the president.

Robin Daniel’s position as executive VP and chief operating officer will not be replaced upon his retirement in 2020.

“Change is inevitable,” Czarda told faculty and staff in announcing these plans. “We are confident that these changes will help the college move smoothly through a period of major transition in leadership in this, our 181st year of transforming lives.”

THE CLASS OF 1920

NINETEENTH AMENDMENT CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

The year 2020 marks the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution. It reads: The right of citizens to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

“As the first chartered college for women in this state, the second oldest in the South, and the third oldest in the nation, it stands to reason that Greensboro College students were involved in some type of advocacy for the right for women to vote,” says Willie Taylor, a GC professor emerita. “GC was a pioneer in educating young women and therefore should energetically lead in the recognition of this historic occasion.”

This is also the 100th anniversary of the founding of the League of Women Voters of the Piedmont Triad (LWVPT), a nonpartisan organization founded by suffragists for the purpose of registering voters and educating them on the issues once the 19th Amendment was ratified.

Taylor, who was a professor of physical education and recreation and coached the Aquabelles among her many other duties, is a LWVPT volunteer and a driving force in getting the entire community involved in the 100th commemoration. For more than a year, she has been encouraging local organizations to incorporate this topic into their programs and events. The commemoration officially begins in February and will culminate in October 2020.

Last year, Taylor suggested to VP Anne Jones Hurd '81 (her former student) that GC should be a leader in asking the other local institutions that started as women's colleges to get involved in the planning. UNCG, Salem and Bennett attended the first planning meetings, and the group expanded this fall to include co-ed Guilford, N.C. A&T State University and High Point University. As a result, local colleges and universities are planning speakers, classes, applications for highway markers, and more.

Professor Michael Sistrom's history classes will be conducting research and petitioning the state for a highway marker to honor Greensboro College's President Lucy Robertson, who in 1903 became the first woman college president in the South.

And Greensboro College's Women in Philanthropy and Leadership Council has taken the lead in underwriting a prominent speaker (to be announced) on April 22, 2020.

The Women in Philanthropy and Leadership Initiative began five years ago as an opportunity for education and engagement in philanthropy across diverse generational segments of our alumni base. Five alumnae founders – BJ Farrell Williams '58, Dianna Blackwell Goodman '69, Dr. Candace Lambeth Kime '69, Judith Ross '70, and Lynn Lewis Lane '73 – along with brothers Joe, Cooper and Tom Brantley in memory of their alumna mother, Eva Allen Mann Brantley '38, funded a significant endowment, the earnings from which are to be used for GC to recognize and celebrate women's contributions to our alma mater and encourage leadership in future generations. Earnings from this endowment have now supported speaker luncheons in 2016 and 2017 and a student leadership program in 2018.

Sallie Swepson Sims Southall graduated from Greensboro Female College in 1863 at the age of 17. After several years of tutoring children, she married Robert Randolph Cotten in 1866 and moved to a 1,000-acre Pitt County farm they named Cottendale, where she organized a small school for neighborhood children.

Her appointment by Gov. Elias Carr as a “lady manager” for the 1893 Chicago World's Fair was a turning point in her life: She traveled the state to raise funds to build a North Carolina building and items for the exhibit. She left the fair with the notion to encourage women to develop and organize the clubs and activities evident in other states. At Salem Academy in 1902, she helped create the N.C. Federation of Women's Clubs, in which she was active as a volunteer and leader for 25 years. This group worked to gain passage of laws that would allow for women to serve on local school boards, make reforms to existing child labor laws, and improve conditions in correctional institutions, among other reforms.

The N.C. Federation of Women's Clubs was one of the strongest North Carolina advocates for the 19th Amendment, which was not ratified by North Carolina.

BIG CHANGES COMING FOR REUNIONS AND CAMPUS CELEBRATIONS

What makes for the biggest campus party weekend at Greensboro College? We're hoping we have the answer!

Starting in Fall 2020, we are planning to hold one big annual party weekend of events during the last weekend of September, combining fall Homecoming and spring Alumni Reunion weekends on campus for one big celebration.

Combining homecoming and alumni reunion weekends has become common practice for small schools in order to have a robust weekend with a critical mass of alumni. Guilford, Catawba, Pfeiffer and Lees McRae colleges all have a combined homecoming/alumni weekend. And, because one-third of our alumni have graduated since 2005, we recognize the need to appeal to a younger alumni body.

Scheduling for both fall and spring weekends has become increasingly challenging in October and April because the International Furniture Market, NCA&T Homecoming, and major sports conventions at the Greensboro Coliseum put a heavy demand on hotel-room availability. The last weekend of September is the best time to offer a variety of on-campus fall sports and non-athletic events, Homecoming Court, and most years – depending on their conference schedule – the opportunity to attend a Pride football game at Jamieson Stadium in the early afternoon. Hotel accommodations should be more readily available.

Friday-Saturday, Sept. 25-26, 2020, is our first Alumni Homecoming and Parent Weekend. On Friday we will have the Class of 1970 50th Reunion reception and dinner (the postponement from April 2020 already has been OK'd by the '70 Reunion Planning Committee), Friday-night student bonfire, athletic events on campus and off throughout the day (dependent upon fall sports schedules), evening theatrical performances, and marching band on campus. On Saturday, we'll have the Alumni Annual Meeting and Awards in Finch Chapel; alumni/parent/students/faculty and retired faculty lunch, with the Brock Museum open throughout; and other 5-year reunion dinners off campus in restaurants on Saturday night.

Admissions will encourage interested prospective students to tour campus on this Saturday as this much activity should excite potential students.

There will not be a traditional Alumni Saturday in April 2020; however, there will be an Alumni Afternoon Tea in Lea Center at 3 p.m. Thursday, April 16, 2020, for alumni who don't want to miss April on our campus.

SO SAVE THE DATE! SEPT. 25-26, 2020
Suggestions for making this a great celebration weekend are welcome!

and Newton Taylor Babb '15*

GREENSBORO COLLEGE PRESENTED AWARDS TO THREE OUTSTANDING ALUMNI DURING ALUMNI WEEKEND FESTIVITIES APRIL 13.

The winners were:

- DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARD:
Harriet Craver Heath '59 of Portsmouth, Va.
- ALUMNI EXCELLENCE AWARD:
Mary Beth McCord Flynn '93 of Kernersville, N.C.
- YOUNG ALUMNI AWARD:
Newton Taylor Babb '15 of Greensboro.

After receiving her degree in music education, Heath earned her MME from Virginia Commonwealth University and went on to a busy career as a choral director and music educator.

Highlights of her career include the establishment of the Virginia Honors Choir in 1979. She has served as Coordinator of Music for the Governor's School and for Mary Baldwin College and was the first recipient of the Music Educator of the Year award in 1990. In 2000, she received the Sidney Swiggett Award at the Virginia Music Educators Conference.

Heath has strongly supported Greensboro College since she graduated. She serves on the alumni board (including two terms as board chaplain), has directed the GC Glee Club Reunion chorus and also has supported the college financially.

The Distinguished Alumni Award, established in 1966, recognizes those who have continually served the college in community and religious affairs and have demonstrated outstanding service or accomplishment in their personal or professional lives.

Flynn is being honored for both her work as an educator and her work in the community. After receiving her bachelor's in psychology and sociology, she worked as a lead preschool teacher at Fountain of Life Lutheran Preschool and as an assistant teacher at Piney Grove Elementary School.

Currently, she serves as a lead kindergarten teacher at Forest Park Elementary School in Winston Salem, having chosen to teach at an economically disadvantaged school to help make a difference for those students and their families.

The Alumni Excellence Award, established in 1990, recognizes alumni who have contributed outstanding service and achievement as humanitarians and/or professionals in their chosen endeavors. Service, commitment, integrity and success are the key factors in making these awards.

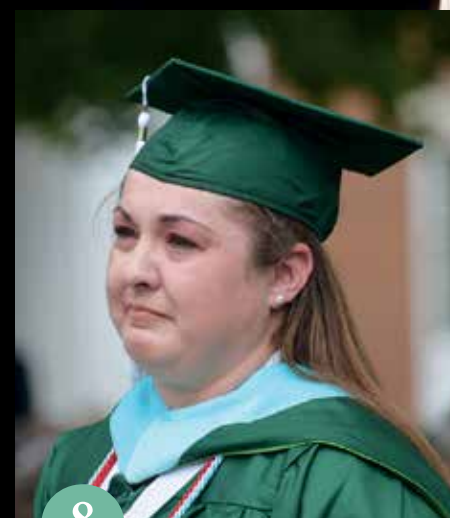

Babb also is being honored as an educator. After receiving his degree in Mathematics Education, he began teaching math at Greensboro's Page High School, where he also is a lacrosse and football coach.

A frequent volunteer to share his story at Greensboro College's Admissions Open House events, he continuously offers his support whenever there is an opportunity for him to get involved and has referred a number of college-bound students to GC. Originally from Atlanta, he chose to stay in Greensboro to give back to this community.

The Young Alumni Award, re-established in 2012, recognizes alumni younger than 35 who have contributed outstanding service and achievement as humanitarians and/or professionals. Service, commitment, integrity and success are the key factors in making these awards.

GREENSBORO COLLEGE ALUMNA LEADS CHARGE TO PERMANENT COMPENSATION FOR 9/11 FIRST RESPONDERS

"... by providing the healthcare and compensation these families and heroes need and deserve, I hope we also provide at least a little peace of mind."

— REP. CAROLYN B. MALONEY '68

"Those working along the pile (at the former sites of the World Trade Center towers), community residents, and school children were betrayed by every level of government when they were not informed of the grave health hazards throughout lower Manhattan," she says. "As a result, thousands have fallen sick and many have died from exposure to deadly toxins. It is an absolute scandal that our government took so long to give our 9/11 heroes the proper healthcare and compensation they deserve."

Congress created the original 9/11 Victims Compensation Fund, which operated from 2001 to 2004, to compensate those who were injured or the families of those who had been killed in the attacks.

Maloney helped lead the effort to create and fund the World Trade Center Medical Monitoring Program (now the World Trade Center Health Program) and to reactivate and restructure the Victims Compensation Fund after its initial expiration. By now, about 70,000 responders are enrolled in the program, although not all have become ill or are receiving payments.

But funding became a year-by-year fight until, in 2010, Congress passed the James Zadroga 9/11 Health and Compensation Act, which reauthorized the health program and victims' compensation fund until October 2016. In late 2015, these measures were reauthorized and funded until 2020.

But in 2018, the Special Master in charge of administering payments from the fund announced that she expected the fund to start running out of money. Maloney introduced a bill to provide permanent funding, but Congress adjourned at year's end without a vote.

Then, in February, the Special Master announced that payments would need to be reduced to make the fund last until 2020. On Feb. 25, Maloney introduced what became the Never Forget the Heroes: James Zadroga, Ray Pfeifer, and Luis Alvarez Permanent Authorization of the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund Act to make the fund permanent. In July, the bill passed the House 402-12 and the Senate 97-2. President Trump signed the bill into law July 29.

According to the monitoring program, more than 32,000 responders have developed respiratory diseases and 705 have died. More than 9,000 have developed cancer, of whom 600 have died. The fund enrolls roughly 750 new responders each month.

In September, on the 18th anniversary of the attacks, Maloney marked the occasion in the House of Representatives, saying, "Nothing will ever bring back those we lost, and nothing can ever fully repay the sacrifices that 9/11 first responders and survivors made for our country. However, by providing the healthcare and compensation these families and heroes need and deserve, I hope we also provide at least a little peace of mind."

Gifts for Operations

	$1,426,389
 Permanently Restricted Capital and Endowment Gifts

TOTAL GIVING	$2,774,030

By Anne Jones Hurd '81, Vice President for Advancement and Admissions

Greensboro College had another extraordinary year of giving in 2018-2019. Between July 1, 2018, and June 30, 2019, our donors made charitable gifts to Greensboro College of $2,774,030. Throughout our 180th year, your charitable gifts showed your love for, and loyalty to, our college, affecting all our students in their classrooms, on their athletic teams, and in their stage performances and residence halls. Your support of our annual giving day, Give4GC, increased donors and dollars during that 24-hour period for the third year in a row and took the GC Fund to its highest level since 2011. We can never say “thank you” enough. The giving impact report (opposite page) highlights some of the fun giving data from the year.

The total for the GC 20/20: Uniquely Focused Capital Campaign climbed to $18,315,307, more than $3 million over our $15 million goal! And, we still have at least six months left until the campaign ends on June 30, 2020! The donor lists on the following pages are for only one year of the campaign and are not meant to be a listing of planned gifts or pledges throughout the GC20/20 Capital Campaign; a comprehensive final campaign report will be included in the Fall 2020 Points of Pride.

In our final year, we’re pleased to report that GC 20/20 campaign commitments have created new or increased existing endowments and have funded current scholarships, programs, faculty salaries and professional development, and college operations. Gifts for facilities have helped fund renovations to the residence halls, a new turf field and athletic training center, air conditioned Hanes Gymnasium, and created a global communication center. The first phase of renovations to the upstairs of The Student Center is complete, and the “Renew The Stu” campaign is still underway through June 30, 2020, for alumni or others interested in supporting renovations and furnishings downstairs.

One goal of the campaign has been to increase our percentage of alumni donors to at least the national average, currently 17%. In 2017-18, we celebrated meeting our incremental goal of 16%; however, in 2018-19, we lost those gains because we chose not to solicit alumni in Eastern North Carolina in the immediate aftermath of the two hurricanes. We will continue to strive to meet, and hopefully exceed, the national average. Ongoing alumni giving is crucial to the long-term financial security of GC. The challenge here is that we graduate larger classes now than in the past, so our percentage of younger alumni increases as the percentage of older alumni (who tend to give more regularly) decreases. An interesting fact is that fully one-third of our alumni have graduated since 2005! The percentage of alumni donors is the only measure of alumni support that is figured into the U.S. News & World Report rankings. So, it’s easy to see the many reasons why alumni gifts of any amount are truly crucial to GC!

In this Annual Honor Roll of Donors, we gratefully acknowledge the generous donors who made gifts to Greensboro College between July 1, 2018, and June 30, 2019. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of this report; however, with work of this nature, we may have made inadvertent errors or omissions. # Son’s Estate Gift Adds Significantly to Rimmey Endowment

Rick Rimmey and his mother, Kat, were always close.

“They never missed watching a sunset together at the beach, and my brother Rick never missed calling Mom at 7 p.m. every single evening,” remembers his sister (and Kat’s daughter), Gayle Rimmey Faucette.

So when Rick and Gayle announced at their mother’s 80th birthday party that a scholarship endowment had been established in her honor at her beloved alma mater, Greensboro College, those present were especially touched for Kat, but not very much surprised.

Kathryn Thompson was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Small Thompson of Aurora, N.C. When she entered Greensboro College in fall 1937 at age 17, she was the youngest student on campus. “My mother must have been pretty brave to go off to college so far away at such a young age,” says Gayle.

Kat quickly stood out as a student leader of the Class of 1941, and her love, support and advocacy of the college continued throughout her life. “Mom loved Greensboro College,” Gayle says, “and we knew that establishing a named scholarship to help others attend ... would mean a lot to her.”

She married Richard C. Rimmey in 1942 and they enjoyed a 44-year marriage before he predeceased her.

At the end of Kat’s freshman year, in spring 1938, Greensboro College celebrated its 100th year. On display in the Brock Museum is a photo from the festivities showing the youngest student, Kathryn Thompson, with the oldest living alumna, Sophia Richardson Patrick, Class of 1861. When Kat died in June 2018, her children arranged for this photo to be displayed at her funeral reception at Greensboro’s First Presbyterian Church.

Also on display that day was a photo of mother and son dancing at Kat and Dick’s 40th-anniversary party; their joy and love clearly caught on their faces. “At Kat’s funeral, Rick and I were looking at that photo of them dancing,” recalls family member Theresa Rimmey. “Kat’s love for her son Rick was simply radiant on her face. He knew how much his mother loved him.”

Rick was principal partner in Remco, the company founded by his father and uncle. A successful businessman and investor in his own right, Rick initiated the Kathryn Thompson Rimmey endowment with a $50,000 gift. To this, Rick and Gayle added $5,000 yearly in honor of their mother, and Rick also designated a percentage of his estate for the endowment through his estate plan.

However, everyone was shocked at Rick’s sudden death less than a month after his mother’s last summer. His $150,000 estate gift, added to the already sizable endowment, will now offer a very significant scholarship for a Greensboro College student.

Losing both mother and brother last summer has been extremely difficult for Gayle, but knowing that her mother will be remembered every year by a Greensboro College student she is helping to attend – and that her brother Rick made these arrangements – is a cause for celebration. She thinks about this often at sunset.

Gift from Former Greensboro College President’s Grandson Strengthens Scholarship Endowment

The grandson of Greensboro College’s president at the turn of the 20th century has made a significant gift to the college to endow a scholarship in memory of his grandfather and his mother.

The Odelle Peacock Marsh 1922 and Dr. Dred Peacock Scholarship Endowment Fund was created in October 2018 with a gift from James Peacock Marsh and his wife, Sandra. The earnings from the endowment fund will provide financial assistance for students with proven need and in good academic standing.

“This wonderful gift is a special example of what I call the ‘long, green line’ of grateful descendants whose lives were subsequently impacted by the influence of Greensboro College’s education,” said GC20/20 Capital Campaign Chair Walter Newton, former board chair and the son of an alumna.

Marsh’s grandfather, Dr. Dred Peacock, served as the college’s seventh president from 1894 to 1902. His wife, Ella Carr Peacock, had graduated in 1883, and his daughter Odelle graduated in 1922 and served the college as an alumnae leader.

After his presidency, Peacock moved to High Point, where he enjoyed lucrative careers in insurance, furniture manufacturing, banking and law. He generously supported Greensboro College and served on the Board of Trustees for many years thereafter.

Even though her father’s presidency ended when she was a child, there was probably little doubt that the Peacocks’ daughter Odelle eventually would attend Greensboro College and become a lifelong alumni leader and benefactor. Continuing that family tradition, Odelle’s late daughter Millicent (Jim’s sister) graduated in 1952.

While signing the documents to establish the endowment fund in the Hall of Presidents and under the watchful portrait of Dr. Peacock, Jim Marsh fondly remembered the stories of the Greensboro College years he heard from his mother when he was a child.

“She said her dad had to keep a close eye on the young men who wanted to date GC girls,” Marsh remembers. “I guess he would be pretty proud to know ... that his family is still involved.”

And they’re staying involved. Marsh’s granddaughter, Mary Lyle, is a sophomore at Greensboro College. And Marsh has agreed to match up to $50,000 in contributions to complete renovations of The Student Center on main campus between now and the end of the GC20/20 Capital Campaign on June 30. Greensboro College has named its new athletic training center after a former trustee and his wife in recognition of their major capital-campaign gift

The Willie and Lisa Bullock Athletic Training Center was completed in December 2018. Through it, the college’s athletic training program delivers traditional athletic training and sports medicine services to student athletes by:

- helping with prevention of athletic injuries.
- recognition, evaluation, and treatment of athlete injuries and illnesses.
- rehabilitation and reconditioning of all injuries incurred by student athletes.
- providing health and wellness education.

The Bullocks’ gift also took Greensboro College over the $18 million mark in its GC20/20 Capital Campaign, surpassing the initial goal of $15 million.

Willie Bullock served on the college’s Board of Trustees from 2003 to 2014, and the couple have been significant donors to the college even prior to their most recent six-figure gift. The Bullocks’ philanthropy is concentrated locally in Greensboro, including the Women to Women Endowment, which Lisa Bullock co-founded.

“We are pleased to be able to help Greensboro College provide an excellent experience for student athletes and visitors to campus,” said Willie Bullock, whose son, Bill, is a 2010 graduate with a degree in business administration.

“Division III college athletics offer a powerful educational experience outside of academics, building confidence in students and instilling valuable skills that will be necessary in the professional world beyond college.”

In December 2018, the college completed construction and moved its Athletic Training Center into the former swimming-pool space in Hanes Gym that the college had renovated in 2017.

The college filled in the pool and renovated the structure, making way for the athletic training facilities with room to spare for future locker rooms. The Bullocks’ gift was announced in May.

Former President’s Daughter Defines a Path for GC Religious Studies Students

The alumna daughter of a former Greensboro College president has established a scholarship endowment fund to honor her father and provide financial assistance for future students interested in religious studies.

The Rev. Judith Olivia Jolly '67, who attended and graduated from the college during her father’s presidency, has provided for a six-figure gift in her estate plan to establish The President J. Ralph Jolly Endowment Fund. The earnings from the fund will support scholarships for Greensboro College students who wish to participate in the religious life of the college and are exploring, or have declared, a major in religious studies.

Dr. J. Ralph Jolly was president from 1964 through 1969, a significant period of growth and modernization at Greensboro College. Joseph Ralph Jolly was raised in the small Alabama mill town of Tallassee, the son of John Attaway and Olivia McCarley Jolly. A college scholarship offered to the intelligent young man would define his path to become a Methodist minister and eventually to be the president of this small, North Carolina Methodist-affiliated college.

In 1969, Dr. Jolly resigned as president to return to his home state to lead the Alabama Association of Independent Colleges and Universities. A few years later, upon the death of his father-in-law, he left the academic world and achieved great success leading the family business, Waters Enterprises, now managed by his son.

“Daddy never forgot the opportunity that a generous benefactor offered to him,” says Judith Jolly. “I think he would be pleased to know that a scholarship in his name will help other young students to attend Greensboro College, an institution about which he cared deeply.”

Judith Jolly graduated from Greensboro College with a degree in mathematics and went on to earn her Master’s of Education from the University of Richmond. She was consecrated a Diaconal Minister in 1995 and ordained Deacon in 1998. She is currently serving as Minister of Visitation at Wesleyan Chapel United Methodist Church in Wilmington, N.C. She has two grown children – daughter Elizabeth (Beth) Feezor Eisenhardt and son Robert (Bob) Joseph Feezor – and five grandchildren.

The late Ralph and Jeanne Jolly’s children remain a close family, and alumni from the President Jolly era will remember fondly Judith, Anne, Lois, and Ralph, Jr.

Glenwood United Methodist Church’s Zink-Auman Scholarship Fund Transferred to Greensboro College

Helen and Bill Zink were longtime, faithful members of Greensboro’s Glenwood United Methodist Church. When her husband passed away in 1997, Helen Whitener Zink established the William P. Zink Scholarship Fund at the church to provide scholarships for her church’s college or university students in his memory.

She initiated the endowment fund with $30,000 (in two outright gifts of $15,000 in 1997 and 1998) and added another $20,000 through her will upon her death on Jan. 31, 2000. True to her wishes, The Zink Fund provided scholarships for her church’s college or university students from 1997 through 2018, and it continued to grow through steady investment and management.

However, Helen Zink’s estate had a stipulation: “Should the Glenwood United Methodist Church dissolve itself or cease to exist, any and all remaining funds in the Scholarship Fund shall be distributed to Greensboro College for the establishment of the Mildred Whitener Auman Scholarship Fund, for the benefit of worthy students.” Mildred Auman, Greensboro College Class of 1942, was Helen Whitener Zink’s sister.

In 2018, Glenwood United Methodist Church dissolved, and in March 2019, church members familiar with Mrs. Zink’s wishes saw to it that the assets of the William P. Zink Scholarship Fund were transferred to Greensboro College. The fund is valued at nearly $60,000.

The combined name of Zink-Whitener Fund was adopted at the suggestion of Nancy Tilley, longtime administrator of the Zink Fund at Glenwood United Methodist Church. “I knew Helen and felt that she would want to continue to honor both her husband and sister by helping young people attend college,” Tilley said.

Tilley will continue her connection to the Zink-Whitener Fund as the college’s contact to receive reports on the scholarship recipients and fund values and expenditures.

The William P. Zink and Mildred Whitener Auman Scholarship Fund (Zink-Whitener Fund) will now fund scholarships to students of Greensboro College and, in keeping with the criteria of The Zink Scholarship, will give preference to a student “on the basis of active church participation, citizenship and scholarship.”

THE PETER DOUB SOCIETY

To honor his foresight and leadership, Greensboro College established the Peter Doub Society (named for the college's founder) to honor those who make provisions for GC through their estate plans. Listing in the Peter Doub Society is a special distinction, signaling the donor's understanding that planning now for a gift beyond their lifetime is the way to help secure the future of Greensboro College.

Fifteen of the 28 Greensboro College students who are recipients of the prestigious Lettie Pate Whitehead Foundation Scholarship met Sept. 18 with foundation representatives to talk about Mrs. Whitehead and the work of the foundation, which provides support for the education of female students and for the care of elderly women in nine Southeastern states. The students were joined by Carrie Conway (far left), senior program officer for the foundation, and Lyons Gray (far right), vice chair of the foundation's Board of Trustees.

GREENSBORO COLLEGE UNVEILS NEW ATHLETICS LOGO DURING 24-HOUR FUNDRAISER

GREENSBORO COLLEGE unveiled a new athletics logo this past spring as part of on-campus celebration of the college’s annual Give4GC 24-hour day of giving.

“In a liberal-arts institution as old as this, some things never change because they are our ethos; they are in our DNA and always will be,” President Lawrence D. Czarda, Ph.D., told a crowd of about 200 students, faculty and staff gathered outside Main Building. “But as times change, so do the styles and tastes of the generation entering college, and so our brand must evolve.”

The new logo and spirit marks replace logos that had been used for more than 20 years.

“I want to reassure you all that we are still One Pride, our logo will still depict a lion and lioness, and our main color will still be green – in fact, that green color will be standardized,” outgoing

Director of Athletics Bryan Galuski said. “But the new logo is more modern looking. It presents Leo and Leona as equals, in the spirit of this college’s long tradition of equal opportunity. And we think it’ll be more fun.”

The crowd whooped and applauded when the new logo was revealed.

“We are proud of our new athletic branding and excited about the visibility they will give us in Greensboro and in the USA South Conference,” said Jena Cabe Miller ‘13, the athletic department’s senior woman administrator.

The college’s athletics department, the offices of Marketing and Communications, and Department of Student Development cooperated on the project with input from students, faculty, staff and alumni. A Florida-based firm, Lure Design, assisted with the logo and spirit mark design.
